Building Group Still Wants To Absorb Gas Main Cost

The school building committee is opposed to asking town meeting in any way, shape or form to appropriate a possible $62,000 to pay for a new gas main to service the Doherty School, but they acknowledge that it is the town manager's prerogative to do just that, committee members told the manager last Thursday.

At their last meeting on Jan. 29, the building committee agreed by consensus that the unexpected cost of the new gas main should be absorbed into the $11 million bond issue approved by town meeting last year, even if that meant cutting back the program budget further.

Some committee members were surprised, therefore, to learn that the manager and the selectmen had discussed the possibility of appropriating the money as a special article on the following Monday night.

"It was my understanding that we would not go back to the town," committee member Virginia Cole said. "If we do ask town meeting for more money, it should be for something far more important and far greater than a gas main."

"I would hate to go back for the gas main, and then have to go back again later," Cole added.

Committee member John Sullivan said he felt "very strongly" that the committee "certainly ought to wait for the (construction) bids. If the bids are more than the bond issue, then we can take another crack at seeing what can be cut back in the program."

If the program is over budget only by as much as the cost of the gas main — estimated at $48,000 to $62,000 — then the committee should "try to bite the bullet" and absorb the cost into the current bond issue, Sullivan suggested.

Town Manager Jared S.A. Clark responded that he had proposed the gas main as a potential special article because he is putting all potential articles "on the plate" for the selectmen to consider. "I have a responsibility to notify the selectmen of the total picture," he explained. "All I've done is to preserve an option."

With only $400,000 budgeted for special articles this year, the manager has asked the selectmen to set priorities on all potential articles; the selectmen supported the idea of paying for the gas main if necessary, Clark told the building committee.

The manager emphasized that he presented the article to the selectmen "as a possible request, as opposed to a final request. It can always be withdrawn."

Clark added that after the building com-

Reaganomics Could Cut Pump Station Funding

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Although on the whole Andover should survive President Reagan's newly-proposed budget cuts "pretty well," some town programs — including plans for a new $6 million Riverina Road sewage pumping station — could suffer under a tighter federal budget.

Town Manager Jared S.A. Clark reported Friday that although it is "questionable" at this point, the Environmental Protection Agency's budget could possibly be slashed, endangering federal funding for the new pumping station.

The town will receive government grants to complete plans for the pumping station, the manager indicated, but it may be another year before the town knows if federal funds for the actual construction will be available.

"Without federal aid, the new station won't be built," Clark explained. Town officials have expected to receive both state and federal funding for the $6 to $8 million project. "Andover can't come up with $6 million ourselves."

"The project can be postponed," the manager added, "but it shouldn't be."

We're living on borrowed time with the pumping station now. And if the plans for a new station are shelved, there will be more and more times when the station will be operating beyond its design capacity."

The actual capacity of the station's two pumps has not yet been exceeded, Clark said, but at times the equipment must pump more than it was designed to handle, shortening the life span of the pumps.

Transportation in the area could also be affected by the president's budget cuts, the manager indicated, if federal subsidies to the Merrimack Valley Regional Transit Authority (MVRTA) are reduced.

Of the services offered to Andover through the MVRTA, the most important is the WEEBUS service for the elderly, in Clark's estimation. That service is funded 50 percent by the federal government, 25 percent by the state, and 25 percent by local government.

The manager's second transportation priority is regional bus service, which brings employees to work at Raytheon.

Cotton Industry Here Outlined In Slides

When the Andover Historical Society presents its new slide show on "Cotton Manufacturing in New England" next Sunday, March 1, at 2 p.m. and at 3 p.m. at the Blanchard House, 97 Main St., it will do far more than show 100 pictures and the accompanying script describing the history of textile mills along the Merrimack.

This presentation will also outline the first significant emergence of the industrial revolution in America. This was a revolution in source of power and its transmission, in production technology, in the base materials employed and a revolution also in both the lifestyle of native Americans and of the many thousands of immigrant mill workers.

As the presentation will show, the real beginnings of cotton manufacturing, which was to become New England's leading industry, occurred in 1822 near the Merrimack such as Lawrence and Manchester.

Lowell soon outgrew its local labor supply but wave after wave of immigration from Canada and from Europe took care of that problem. Since the new workers created a housing shortage, the mills even Pawtucket Falls of the Merrimack River in what is now called Lowell.

There the key to mechanical power was harnessing the force in the drop of water level. Power was controlled and transmitted by a system of dams, canals, gates, and water wheels. In the mills the recently invented machines were driven by a combination of shafts, gears, pulleys and belts.

Lowell became a center of many other innovative technologies. An ample supply of cotton, made feasible by the cotton gin, arrived on the 27-mile Middlesex Canal from Boston. The new mills housed newly developed spinning frames and power looms. Lowell had its own machine shop to build spindles and looms. Local farms furnished mass-production complex came together in one place for the first time in American history.

The initial success of this complicated experiment in industrialization brought great expansion first to Lowell and then to numerous other rural locations along the built boarding houses for some of their employees.

At its peak early in this century, it is estimated that Lowell had some 25,000 textile workers operating about 20,000 looms and using a million spindles. The farming community near the falls in the Merrimack became an industrial metropolis of over 100,000 people.

This slide show was prepared by Frederick Flather and George Glennie of the Andover Historical Society. The public is invited to see and hear about the pioneering development of textile manufacturing in Lowell, Lawrence and Manchester. There is no admission charge.

To Explain Solar Usage

On Thursday, March 5, at 7:30 p.m. the Merrimack Valley Solar Energy Association will present a slide show and talk about what can be done with existing homes and buildings to utilize solar in a cost effective manner. M.I.T. solar architect and builder Stan Martin will lead a panel discussion.

The meeting will be held in Room L4 of the Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational High School on River Road in Andover. It is free and open to the public.

M.V.S.E.A. is a non-profit group whose concern is to share information about energy conservation. For further information about monthly programs, workshops and membership, contact Julia Morse of Andover, Lynn Broadus of North Andover.

Arboretum

The Arnold Arboretum, The Arborway, Jamaica Plain, is open daily, sunrise to sunset, free. It offers 265 acres of labeled trees and shrubs; the greenhouses are open Wednesdays, 1:30 to 4:30 p.m., and the staff will assist with botanical problems. Driving permits for the elderly and handicapped are available Monday through Friday, 9 to 4:30.

Elowe In Concert

Pianist Carol Elowe will perform music of Bach, Beethoven and Ravel on Tuesday, March 10, at 11:30 a.m. in the Function Room, fourth floor floor of the Salem State College Library.

We Will Give You $10⁰⁰ To Pay Your Bills By Phone

That's right, $10.

Just for paying one of your bills by phone. That's how convinced we are that you'll find Pay by Phone easier, faster and safer than paying your bills any other way.

In addition, you'll save the cost of a postage stamp on each bill you'd normally pay by mail. Plus all that time you don't have to spend writing and mailing checks.

What's more you can pay one bill or many with the same phone call. And that call is toll-free.

It's easy to keep track of bills, too. Each month we'll list all the bills you've paid by phone on your regular checking account statement. Your receipt for each call includes the amounts and names of the merchants paid.

It's such a simple, foolproof system, it's no wonder thousands of people in Massachusetts use Pay by Phone to pay their monthly bills.

Now we'd like to pay you something to join them.

How to get your $10

It couldn't be easier. Just list at least six merchants (department stores, utilities, credit cards, doctors, etc.) whom you pay regularly on the coupon at right.

Then bring it to any of our offices and open a checking account. If you already have a checking account, just tell us to add Pay by Phone service to it.

As soon as you pay your first bill by phone, we'll automatically deposit $10 to your account.

Sound like a good deal? Then start listing those merchants now. After all you've got to pay your bills anyway. So why not start paying them by phone and start out $10 ahead?

With 100% service, we'll give you $10.00 for opening a new checking account with us. To receive the $10.00, you must open a new checking account with us, and you must use it to pay at least one bill by phone within 30 days of opening the account. The $10.00 will be deposited into your new account within 10 business days of meeting these requirements.

Canene New Dog Officer

William E. Canene of 18 Foster Circle has been appointed the new dog officer, replacing dog officer Donald Porter, who recently retired. The board of selectmen approved Canene's appointment Monday night.

In addition to his duties as dog officer, Canene will also work on the maintenance of police department vehicles, and work with youth assigned to the town under the Lawrence District Court's pro bono publico program. Town Manager Jared S.A. Clark told the board.

Other new appointments approved by the selectmen Monday night were the appointment of Peter Washburn to the Community Services Committee, and of Ann Maitland to the Council on Aging.

Impact Study Not Needed

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has announced that an environmental impact statement is not required for a proposed water pollution control project in Andover.

The proposed project is for the design and eventual construction of an 18 million gallons per day pump station, force main and interceptor sewer. The proposed pump station will replace the Riverina Road Pump Station.

Under the terms of the National Environmental Policy Act, EPA must prepare a statement of environmental impact in advance of each of its major actions that may significantly affect the quality of the human environment.

The impact statement is not required because the project will provide important environmental benefits, and will cause no significant adverse impact to the environment.

Although no formal impact statement will be prepared, the project has received an environmental impact appraisal at the EPA Regional Office.

Public comments on EPA's decision not to require an environmental impact statement are invited anytime before March 19, 1981. Comments may be sent to: EPA, Municipal Facilities Branch, John F. Kennedy Federal Building, Boston, MA 02203.

State Library Board To Hold Hearing

One of five public hearings to be scheduled across the state by the Massachusetts Board of Library Commissioners will be held on Tuesday, March 3, at the Memorial Hall Library in Andover from 2:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Testimony and public response is being requested by the board with regard to certain proposed revisions to the state regulation for the Board of Library

Commissioners' certificate of sub-professional librarianship.

The commissioner, who will preside at the public hearing to be held at Memorial Hall Library, is Reverend John R. Aherne of Merrimack College in North Andover.

Chairman of the board is Solomon Rosenbaum, Esq., of Fitchburg and Leominster.

Selectmen OK Spring Events

The board of selectmen granted permits for several spring events during a regular meeting at town hall Monday night.

The American Diabetes Association was granted permission to hold a bike-a-thon from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, April 12, with a rain date of Sunday, April 26.

The Lawrence Exchange Club will hold its annual road race for charity, with the selectmen's approval, beginning at 10:30 a.m. Sunday, May 17.

And the Center Merchants were given approval to hold their annual sidewalk bazaar from 8:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday, June 26, and Saturday, June 27. Main Street will be closed from Elm Square to Punchard Avenue on both days.

The town manager recommended approval of the permits, provided that arrangements are made with the police department and proper safety precautions are taken.

Spring Cabaret Planned

The Andover High School music clubs will present a spring cabaret on Friday and Saturday, March 6 and 7 at South Church at 8 p.m. Homemade desserts and coffee will be served.

Tickets may be obtained from members of the music clubs or may be purchased at the door. Proceeds from cabaret will be used to defray expenses for a trip to Washington planned by the music clubs early in May. The clubs will perform in concert on the east steps of the Capitol on Friday, May 8.

Antique Show

The 13th Annual Antique Show and Sale to benefit the 1st Religious Society of Carlisle (Unitarian) will be held on Friday and Saturday, March 6 and 7 at the Church Hall, Carlisle Center, Carlisle, Mass. The doors will be open from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday and from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday.

A snack bar will be available throughout the two-day event. Madeline Ferguson is the general chairman.

Labels Advised

Taxpayers who use the peel-off label and pre-addressed envelope when filing their income tax returns help reduce the cost of processing and lessen their chances of making time-consuming errors. Herbert B. Mosher, District Director for IRS in Massachusetts, said.

Errors, especially if they involve incorrect or illegible Social Security numbers, can also lead to refund delays. Refunds may generally be expected in six to eight weeks for tax returns that are accurately filed.

The peel-off label is pre-printed with the taxpayer's name, address and social security number. Mosher emphasized that taxpayers should use the label even if it contains some incorrect information. Corrections can be made directly on the label.

The coded envelope aids the IRS in sorting the returns according to type. It is pre-addressed and the right size to hold the return.

Lenten Activities Set For St. Augustine's

St. Augustine's Roman Catholic Church on Essex Street in Andover has released plans for their 1981 Lenten season activities.

Ash Wednesday on March 3 marks the beginning of the holiest religious season for the Catholic Church. The staff of St. Augustine's has prepared an outstanding series of events and programs based on the theme of Reconciliation and focusing on "Lord, make me a means of your Peace."

Highlighting the activities will be a parish renewal to be conducted by Rev. Joseph A. Duffey, O.S.A., beginning Monday, March 30 and concluding Thursday, April 2 with a concelebrated Mass of Thanksgiving followed by a social in Good Counsel Hall. Fr. Duffey, who is vicar provincial and director of Parochial Ministry at the Augustinian Province of Saint Thomas of Villanova is well known as a speaker and gears his preaching toward everyday living. Three daily masses will be celebrated at St. Augustine's at 6:30 a.m., 8 a.m., and 5:30 p.m.

Each Wednesday evening, there will be Stations of the Cross, exposition of the Blessed Sacrament and benediction. Following 5:30 p.m. mass on Fridays, a Poor Man's supper at St. Augustine's school from 6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. has been planned with the proceeds being given to charity. Special activities have been established for family participation including the Parish Lent Calendar, scripture readings pamphlet and home symbol for the season which will be returned to the church during Holy Week to be the basis for the New Fire. Families will "adopt" prospective confirmation candidates and pray for them as a gesture of "kinship."

Operation Rice Bowl, a collection for the hungry, will again be a part of the Lenten season activities. Rev. Joseph A. Keffer, pastor of St. Augustine's, invites all to participate in the parish Lenten season activities.

Group To Serve 'Poor Man's Meal'

The Genesis Youth Group Program of St. Augustine's Church in Andover will prepare and serve a very simple "Poor Man's Meal" on each Friday during the season of Lent from March 6 to April 17. These meals will be served from 5:30 to 7 p.m. in the St. Augustine School Cafeteria on Chestnut Street.

Any donations received will be sent by the Genesis group to Bruce Ritter.

O.F.M., to help aid teenage runaways in Times Square, New York.

Oil Painting

The Andovers Artists Guild announces that there are a few spaces still available in the oil painting class beginning Monday, March 2.

This class is taught by Robert Benham, well known painter and teacher of Rockport, and will run for eight weeks. It is held in the meeting room of the Bay State National Bank of Andover at 84 Main St. from 9-12 a.m.

For other details and to register for this class, contact Olga Barnett. This class is open to the public for a fee.

The first flood in America of which there is any known record was that of the Mississippi River. It was recorded by Fernando De Soto in 1543.

Fashion Show Planned By B'nai Brith

"Spring into Fashion" is the theme of the children's fashion show that Peace Chapter of B'nai Brith Women of Greater Lawrence will hold March 29. Members' children, ranging in age from three to 16, will be making their modeling debuts in the latest of spring and summer wear from Andover's Young Fashions.

The show is being held to benefit the many charities supported by B'nai Brith Women and will be at Temple Emanuel, 7 Haggett's Pond Road, Andover, at 2 p.m. A donation will cover the day's events and include refreshments.

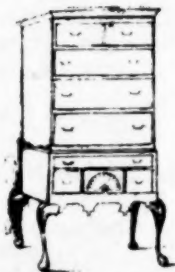

Tickets may be purchased in advance at Young Fashions, 93 Main St., or at the door.

'Front Page'

"The Front Page," the Ben Hecht-Charles MacArthur comic version of journalism in the twenties, opens March 4 at Brandeis University's Spingold Theater.

Performances are scheduled for: March 4-7, 13 and 14 at 8 p.m.; March 8, 7 p.m.; and March 11 and 12 at 10 a.m.

Spring Adult Ed Program Announced

The Christian Formation Center, River Road, Andover, will begin its Spring Adult Education Program early in March.

Fr. Luke M. Ciampi, O.F.M., director of the center, will offer a course in basics of Bible study, called Discovering the Bible, Part II, as a follow-up of the Fall program. Dates are: March 6, 9, 13, 16, 20, 23, 27 and 30, at 7:30 p.m. Richard J. Meegan, M.A.T., will conduct four classes on Improving Family Communication, Part II: How to Handle Family Problems, on March 10, 17, 24 and 31, for those who register for the course at the Formation Center.

Fr. Ernest D'Onofrio, O.F.M., superior of St. Francis House of Prayer, Andover, will deliver two lectures entitled The Triumph of Failure, or The Redemptive Power of Suffering, on April 7 and 10.

Two highlights of the Spring Program will be the twin Bible slide lectures to be delivered by Fr. Antonine DeGuglielmo, O.F.M., S.T.D., S.S.L. (one of the translators of the New American Bible), on Sunday, April 5, and Sunday, April 12. Both lectures will begin at 7:30 p.m.; the first deals with The Historical Background of Holy Week, and the second with The Last Days of Christ on Earth.

Another highlight will be the three-day presentation on May 1, 2 and 3 by April Oursler Armstrong, author of "Cry Babel," and co-author with her father, Fulton Oursler, of "The Greatest Faith Ever Known." Her subject will be Mary, First Christian, Layman of the Church.

In addition, a special feature of the Spring program will be the showing on April 14 of the film "In Remembrance," which deals with the Last Supper, its Historical Origin, Its Impact of Jesus' Contemporaries and Its Challenge for today.

RIDING THE MVRTA.. THE EASY WAY

Discovering how to get from one place to another on the MVRTA bus is easy. Just check the Lawrence Area Bus System, or the Haverhill Area Bus System Route Map/Schedule to find out where and when the buses to and where you can transfer. Route Map/Schedules are available in many Lawrence Intown and Greater Haverhill Chamber of Commerce businesses.

Catching the bus is easy. When you see the bus coming just wave. The bus driver will gladly pull over to a safe area and pick you up.

To board the bus, wait for the driver to pull over to the curb, then just step up the stairs.

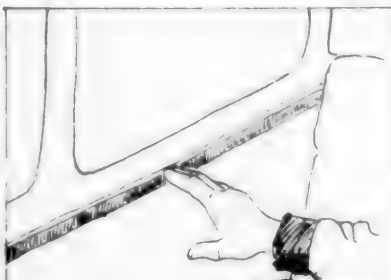

Our new fare boxes "beep" when you deposit your change. It is helpful if you have the exact change, but if necessary, the driver can make change up to $1.00. Please take a seat immediately after boarding and stay seated at all times to avoid falling when the bus stops.

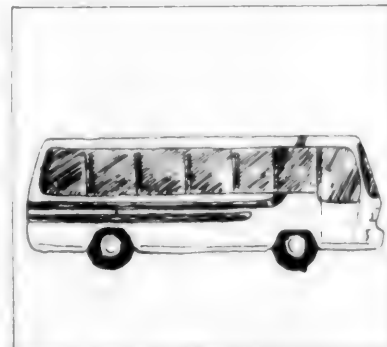

What if you want to transfer? It's easy. Just tell the driver when you pay your fare. He will give you a transfer slip free of charge. When you board your connecting bus, simply hand the transfer to the driver. For further details, see the information in the Route Map/Schedule.

Step six is especially easy. Just select a seat, sit back, and enjoy the scenery.

To tell the driver you wish to get off the bus, just touch the signal tape in our new buses, or pull the signal cord in our older buses. The driver will know that you wish to get off. Please wait until the bus stops before you stand and use the handrails.

If you need more information about riding the MVRTA, the Easy Way, just call 475-9706. We'll also give you a map.

Sanborn Retains Floor Hockey Crown

An enthusiastic crowd attended the department of Community Services 1981 Floor Hockey Tournament finals this past Saturday at the West Junior High School Gymnasium. Ten teams participated in the week-long tourney which drew fourth, fifth and sixth graders from all over Andover. For the second year in a row, the Sanborn School captured the tournament championship. The Sanborn Clamdiggers, led by Kyle McCabe and tourney MVP Chris Sapuppo, powered their way to a hard-earned 7-4 victory over an outstanding Canadians team in the finale.

Both teams came into the finals after easily outscoring their previous opponents in the earlier rounds of competition. Leading scorers for the Canadians were Chris Colsia and Tim Higgins with six goals each. Kyle McCabe's ten goals for the Clamdiggers proved to be the tournament's top scoring performance. For the second time in as many years, Chris Sa-puppo was named the event's MVP. Chris's stick handling and play-making were large contributors to his team's success.

In the consolation finals, the Western Roughriders outscored the Sanborn Sabras 7-1. Tom Herling led the Roughriders with three goals. Mark Duncan played tremendously in goal throughout the tourney for the fourth place Sabras squad.

The Department of Community Services would like to congratulate all the players and coaches that participated in this year's competition. Special thanks must be extended to Ruth Shapiro, Ken Doherty and Chris O'Reilly for volunteering their time to help officiate the tournament.

Final standings were as follows: 1. Sanborn Clamdiggers; 2. Canadians; 3. Western Roughriders; 4. Sanborn Sabras; 5. Wildcats; 6. (tie) B-Force, Bulldogs, Sanborn Seastars, Sanborn Superstars, and St. Augustines SeaHawks.

Family Life Is Topic For Parents, Teens

THE TOWNSMAN, FEBRUARY 26, 1981

The Youth Expression Theatre (YET), which offers a unique approach to family life education for teenagers, parents and youth-serving professionals, will appear at Andover High Monday, sponsored by the high school's Peer Counseling Project.

Under the auspices of the Planned Parenthood League of Massachusetts, this troupe of teenage actors uses drama to heighten awareness of the real problems and pressures faced by teens in the social and sexual areas of their lives. Among the various topics explored by YET are child abuse, pregnancy, parent-teen communications, teen peer pressure and drug and alcohol abuse. The goal is to foster communication among teens, their parents, teachers and youth workers, and to encourage teens, in particular, to consider the consequences of actions that may affect their entire lives.

This program is the second in a series of evening programs to be sponsored by the Peer Counseling Project. The first was College Future Thoughts.

Monday's program, which begins at 7:15 p.m. in the Large Group Room, will be open to all high school students, their parents, youth-serving professionals and school administration and faculty.

Following the performance, the audience will meet in small groups of parents and teens (from different families) to discuss the performance and the various topics covered.

Coordinating the event are Brenda O'Brien, health education resource teacher, and Bob Stern, administrative coordinator of the Peer Project. For more information, call Stern at the high school.

College Consortium Formed

THE TOWNSMAN, FEBRUARY 26, 1981

Eight North Shore and Merrimack Valley colleges have joined together to form a consortium which will open up academic opportunities for more than 28,000 students. Involved in the formation of the Northeast Consortium of Colleges and Universities in Massachusetts (NECCUM) are Endicott College, Gordon College, Merrimack College, Middlesex Community College, North Shore Community College, Northern Essex Community College, Salem State College and the University of Lowell.

The presidents of the participating institutions met in January at Salem State College and are scheduled to meet again on Feb. 25. Under discussion were by-laws and articles of incorporation, as well as specific areas of cooperation. One of the first actions of the presidents was to hire Debra Amidon Rogers, former assistant state secretary of education, to serve as executive director for a six-month period. Her office is located at Salem State College.

Three areas of potential cooperation which could result from the consortium.

Pledged

Michael Gervais, 7 Crescent Drive, Andover, has been pledged to Tau Kappa Epsilon social fraternity.

Tau Kappa Epsilon has had a chapter at Illinois Wesleyan University since 1899.

according to Rogers, are academics, student services and business affairs. Rogers indicated that there are possible cost savings in joint purchasing, cooperative faculty hiring, cross registration, and faculty and library exchanges.

Although many details remain to be ironed out, presidents of the participating colleges are hailing the formation of the consortium as a major step forward. "Banding together has advantages for both the institutions and the students," stated John Dimitry, president of Northern Essex Community College, Haverhill. "The colleges will be able to combine their purchasing power and reap other economic benefits as well. Perhaps even more important," he added, "the consortium will broaden educational opportunities for students and provide for increased cooperation between public and private institutions."

Fr. John A. Coughlan, president of Merrimack College in North Andover, believes the formation of the consortium will provide participating colleges and universities with more opportunities to better serve the educational, cultural, and social needs of area communities.

We are encouraged by the interchange between the private colleges and public colleges and universities that has been demonstrated to work so well in other parts of Massachusetts," remarked Fr. Coughlan. "We look forward to the exciting challenges and benefits the consortium offers."

How Proposition 2 1/2 will affect their school, is the topic of a meeting to be sponsored by the Bancroft School PTO tonight, at 7:30 p.m., in the school's resource center.

School Committeeman Joseph Finn and Supt. Kenneth R. Seifert will be on hand to discuss the topic.

Synfuels are derived from nonrenewable resources. They are liquids and gases derived from coal, tar sands, and oil shale. To extract one barrel of oil from oil shale, one ton of waste is generated and two to five barrels of water are used, Massachusetts Audubon tells us.

It's easier to pay your bills by phone.

And we'll give you 10 bills to prove it.

That's right, $10. Just for paying one of your bills by phone. That's how convinced we are that you'll find Pay by Phone easier, faster and safer than paying your bills any other way.

In addition, you'll save the cost of a postage stamp on each bill you'd normally pay by mail. Plus all that time you don't have to spend writing and mailing checks. What's more you can pay one bill or many with the same phone call. And that call is toll-free.

It's easy to keep track of bills, too. Each month we'll list all the bills you've paid by phone on your regular checking account statement. Your receipt for each call includes the amounts and names of the merchants paid. It's such a simple, foolproof system, it's no wonder thousands of people in Massachusetts use Pay by Phone to pay their monthly bills. Now we'd like to pay you something to join them.

How to get your 10 bills.
It couldn't be easier. Just list at least six merchants (department stores, utilities, credit cards, doctors, etc.) whom you pay regularly on the coupon. Then bring it to any of our offices and open a checking account. If you already have a checking account, just tell us to add Pay by Phone service to it. As soon as you Pay your first bill by phone, we'll automatically deposit $10 to your account.

Sound like a good idea? Then start listing those merchants now. After all, you've got to pay those bills anyway. So why not start paying them by phone and start out $10 ahead.

Yes, I'd like to see how easy it is to pay my bills by phone. I have listed at least six merchants I'd like to be able to pay. I understand that I need pay only one merchant to qualify for a $10 deposit to my account.

Families Needed For Foreign Students

Andover Chapter of American Field Service is offering townspeople a 10-month experience in foreign relations without leaving home.

The local chapter of the international scholarship organization is seeking a family to host an overseas student for the coming school year. The student would attend Andover High or Phillips Academy; it's possible that two families could be involved, each hosting the student for half a year.

The main requirement for an AFS host family is the parents' concern for and interest in young people.

Aside from food and possibly some small incidental expenses, the host family is not expected to support the student financially. The local chapter raises money and the student contributes what he can afford to cover the program's expenses.

AFS also gives a monthly allowance directly to the student, and provides medical coverage.

The foreign students who apply to come to the U.S. from more than 60 countries, are screened by AFS's international headquarters in New York. There are more than 2,500 students from abroad living and studying in America this year.

The benefits flow both ways. While the students gain from their year abroad, the host families can acquire a new perspective of another culture and experience the fun of a new and continuing friendship.

While many families involved in AFS have children who are high school students, any family is eligible to serve as a host. Young families with small children can be just as successful.

Families interested in participating in AFS are asked to call Lee Kirkwood, 41 Sagamore Drive, or Lesley Whitley, 4 Virginia Road.

East Junior High Happenings

By Donna Russell and Lynne Pinkney

Congratulations to East's freshman boys' basketball team for defeating Wilmington by an amazing score of 59-33. The high scorer for this game was John Lahood who scored 12 points. All the players contributed to this successful game.

Aerobics

Beginning Tuesday, March 24, the Greater Lawrence YMCA will offer a Co-ed Aerobics Program. The eight-week program will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 12:15 - 12:45 p.m.

Aerobics is a program designed to develop cardiovascular fitness, flexibility, and muscular endurance through the use of rope skipping, jogging, calisthenics, stair climbing, and fitness games all set to music.

The class is available to both members and non-members alike on a first come, first served basis.

Further information may be attained by contacting Bob Ouellette at the Greater Lawrence YMCA.

Heart Of Hub

The Heart of the Hub walking tours meet Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 10, and Sundays at 2 p.m., on the rear plaza of 60 State St., near "Where's Boston." Fee is $3.

Also on Friday the girls' basketball team ended a fine season with an unexpected loss to Wilmington. The final score was a close 24-20. All of the players contributed to the team with the record for the 1980-81 season eight wins and three losses.

Saturday the freshman boys challenged arch-rival West. The game proved to be an exciting one even though East lost, with a score of 35-33. High scorer for East was Kevin Howard with 11 points.

We'd like to congratulate the two coaches, Miss Cocco and Mr. Hatem for a job well done!

We also want to thank the Andover High School's gymnastic team who performed for us here at East just prior to vacation. It was a great performance and we noticed many former East students on the team.

Everyone is looking forward to the dance to be held tomorrow night sponsored by the student council. It will be held in the gym from 7:30 to 10 and is for all East students.

M. Patricia Sheehan

Awarded Doctorate

M. Patricia Sheehan, director of education at Lawrence General Hospital, Lawrence, has been awarded a doctorate of education from Boston University. Her dissertation, "Development and Evaluation of Materials to Emotionally Prepare Patients for an EEG Examination" was supported by a grant from the Kellogg Foundation. Kellogg named her one of two Copsby Fellows in the United States.

Sheehan also holds a masters of education majoring in guidance and counseling from Salem State College and a B.S. in nursing from the State University of New York at Plattsburgh.

Director of education at LGH since 1976, she also acted as assistant director of the hospital's former school of nursing.

Dr. Sheehan is a newly elected director on the board of the American Cancer Society, Massachusetts Division; past president and vice president of the Greater Lawrence Unit, American Cancer Society; member of Merrimack Valley Health Planning Council; American Society for Training and Development; American Society for Health Manpower Education Training. She is also secretary of the Merrimack Valley striders and lives with her family in Andover.

Drama Club Enters State Competition

This Saturday the Andover High Drama Club will enter the first leg of competition with many other public and private secondary schools who vie for state honors in the area of one act plays. The competition will begin at 9 a.m. in the theater at St. John's Prep in Danvers.

In the first round Andover is matched against six other area schools, among them St. John's, who won first place in the state last year, and Ipswich High, who won first place the year before.

The competition will be challenging but the cast and crew have been working since December and are not at all reluctant to compete against proven quality. Andover will have the second time slot beginning at 9:50. They have five minutes to set all their scenery and props and must finish their presentation in 40 minutes or be declared ineligible.

Meanwhile, the director must sit out in the audience and cannot support the cast

On Dean's List At Bates College

Four Andover residents were among the 350 named to the dean's list for the first semester at Bates College, Lewiston, Maine.

They include: Ian Atkinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Atkinson, a junior; Robert A. Muldoon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Muldoon, a senior; and Evelyn L. and Nina J. Salbia, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Saliba, both seniors.

To qualify for the dean's list, a student must maintain a B average or better for the semester.

On Dean's List

James A. Collins, Jr., 28 Hemlock Road, Andover, has been named to the dean's list for the first semester at Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Maine.

Decoupage Emerges From "The Dungeon"

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Almost every evening, Janina Wojtkun of Moraine Street can be found tucked away in "the dungeon," her family's nickname for the basement workshop where she spends most of her spare time practicing the delicate art of decoupage.

Decoupage, practiced for centuries and particularly favored during the reigns of Louis XIV and Louis XV, involves applying intricate designs, tinted and cut out by hand, to furniture or decorative objects, and then varnishing the surface to a porcelain-like finish.

Wojtkun, who has been studying decoupage for "three or four years," will exhibit two new pieces at the National Decoupage Exhibition, April 2 - 4 at the Howard Johnson Motor Lodge, Park Square, Boston. It will be her second national exhibition as a member of the National Guild of Decoupeurs, and she hopes to participate in many more in years to come.

A smiling, silver-haired grandmother, Wojtkun says that she retreats into her workshop until midnight most evenings, after a day's work in the children's department of Cherry and Webb's at the Methuen Mall.

Although she has become something of a specialist in wooden boxes, which she often turns into handbags by lining the interiors and adding handles, Wojtkun also decorates chairs, mirrors and furniture, and makes plaques from wedding invitations and birth announcements. Her current projects include a lamp ("decoupage under glass — it's very beautiful") and a sewing cabinet.

Her pieces feature ornate, flowered designs in pastel colors; cherubs trailing garlands are one frequent theme, and quaint oriental gardens another.

There are several steps to the eighteenth-century style of decoupage that Wojtkun has learned from Joyce Cooper of Lawrence, who is "one of only 13 master craftsmen in decoupage in the country," Wojtkun says.

Starting with a plain wooden box ("or a tray, or old furniture, or anything"), Wojtkun first sands it "very carefully" to make the smoothest possible surface. She then applies a water-based varnish as a base coat, to make the surface even smoother and less porous.

Once a base coat of paint is applied to give the piece its background color, the object is ready for decoupage.

The next step is choosing a "print" to decorate the piece; the print may be taken from an old greeting card or a piece of wrapping paper, or it may be an illustration designed especially for decoupage.

Such prints are already colored, but the National Guild of Decoupeurs requires exhibition pieces to be done with black-and-white prints that have been tinted by hand. Pages of these prints can be purchased at craft shops, and they are "quite expensive," Wojtkun notes.

"But they are much prettier," she explains, "because you can shade them to your own liking," using soft pencils in an array of colors.

The colored print is sprayed with an acrylic coating so that it too is "non-porous" and then Wojtkun begins the most painstaking and time-consuming step of the process: cutting out the print.

Using little scissors "finer even than manicure scissors," she carefully cuts out every detail of the intricate prints, outlining the tiniest petals of a flower and every point on a leaf.

The print is then ready to be applied to the box, but Wojtkun does not simply use

Flawless Finish

Decoupage artist Janina Wojtkun of Moraine Street applies another coat of varnish to a tray she will exhibit at the National Decoupage Exhibition in Boston, April 2 - 4.

the print as it is; instead, she cuts it into various parts, and spends many hours deciding how to arrange them on the box. Usually, she takes elements from several prints and combines them on one box.

"You look for an artistic design, and balance, just as in any oil painting. It takes hours — you place a design, and then re-design it a thousand and one times until it's finally to your liking."

The final design is glued into place with a coat of varnish, and then Wojtkun begins the final step, which gives each piece the smooth finish characteristic of eighteenth-century decoupage: hundreds of coats of varnish.

After applying as many as 25 coats to protect the design, carefully avoiding air pockets, she begins adding more layers, and rubbing between layers with a water-based sandpaper. "You have to be careful not to rub the print off," she explains. "You can do that very easily."

Next follow "many coats of varnish and many rubbings" before she finally achieves "a finish almost like porcelain," Wojtkun says. Most projects need 100 to 300 coats of varnish, but one box which she had covered with small flakes of mother-of-pearl ("put on piece by piece — that's what you call busywork") needed "at least 400 coats."

And every piece must be finished all over, with the bottom "done just as well as the top."

One box may take Wojtkun three or four months to complete, but she always works on several projects at one time, with all in various stages of completion: for instance, while the varnish dries on one piece, she may cut out a print for another.

Wojtkun is currently enamored of a style called "moulage," in which she molds pieces of a print over epoxy putty, creating a raised design. With this process, she can sculpt flowers that burst into bloom atop a handbag, or two-dimensional lions and tigers that roam across a box with a jungle theme.

"I enjoy the raised work. It's more creative than working on flat paper. I love making the flowers — they're so realistic," she observes.

Wojtkun gleans ideas for her designs from every possible source, from children's books to gift catalogues to embroidery pieces. The shelves of her well-lit workshop, tucked into a corner of the basement, are lined with books and craft magazines, as well as bottles of paints and albums full of prints she has colored and cut out.

"Eventually you end up by being a real collector," she says, laughing.

Almost all of her work ends up as a gift to family or friends. "I have five daughters and four sons and four daughters-in-law, and then there's the grandchildren, so there's a lot to give."

"It's very rewarding when you have children who appreciate it, because of the many hours spent on it," Wojtkun explains. She has created handbags to suit every occasion and every season, sometimes matching a special dress.

How did Wojtkun find herself immersed in the art of decoupage? It seemed to stem naturally from her long-standing interest in art: A one-time art student at Boston University, she has also taken a number of art courses in Andover.

"Betty Moore of the Andover Artists' Guild, who taught me pastels, kept talking about Joyce Cooper and her decoupage. But I was doing stencilling then, Early American decorating, and I just never wanted to get into that."

"But when Betty finally got me over to Joyce's studio, and I saw what Joyce had done, I was just fascinated with it," she recalls. Wojtkun has been attending Cooper's small classes in Lawrence ever since.

It was Cooper who encouraged her student to join the national guild last year. Wojtkun became a guild member by exhibiting a small, powder-blue box, decorated with golden cherubs, at a national exhibition in Florida.

When judging decoupage for exhibition, the guild judges consider the quality of the hand-coloring, the cutting, overall design, and the varnished finish. Wojtkun says, "The finish has to be absolutely, perfectly flawless."

She is now working toward status as a "layman" decoupeur, which she can accomplish by exhibiting five pieces. Wojtkun plans to exhibit two pieces she is now working on, a large tray and a tea caddy, at the April exhibition in Boston, which will mark the first time the guild has exhibited in Massachusetts.

The upcoming exhibition is just one part of a convention for the decoupeurs, which

September Wedding Is Planned

Sou Domitilla

At A Valentine's Day party in their home, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bourbeau of Andover announced the engagement of their daughter, Sou Domitilla, to Don Alan Enos, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Enos of Concord, N.H.

The prospective bride attended Andover High and Fisher Junior College, and is presently enrolled in the Secretarial Program at Northern Essex Community College.

Her fiance attended Concord High School and the University of New Hampshire, where he earned a B.S. degree in physics and a B.S. degree in business administration. He is currently employed by Avco Systems Division in Wilmington as a manufacturing engineer.

The wedding will take place Sept. 12 in St. Augustine's Church, Andover.

November Club Meets Monday

The November Club will hold its March meeting at the club house on Locke Street on Monday, March 2. Members will be greeted by Mrs. William P. Foster and Mrs. John C. Hurlin. Tea will be served at 1:15 p.m. and the pourers will be Mrs. Preston H. Blake and Miss Vivien C. Bowler. Mrs. John G. McClement will create a spring arrangement for the table.

Peter Cook, director of Exhibits for Plimoth Plantation, will present an illustrated talk on "Textile Crafts in the Early

New England Home." This will cover the methods used and types of materials created by women before the industrial revolution took fabric making from the home to the factory.

Cook is a former director of the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities and serves as consultant for museums throughout New England. Locally he has been working on an in-depth survey of the Pixley Collection of spinning wheels at the Merrimack Valley Textile Museum.

Per capita sugar consumption in the U. S. increased 120 percent between 1902 and 1972.

Enhancing Self Esteem Is Topic

Continuing with its biennium topic of "Families Facing Change", AAUW presents "Enhancing Self Esteem in Children" with speaker Marlies Zammuto. The program is to be held on Feb. 26 at 7:30 at the Atkinson School, Massachusetts Avenue, North Andover. The topic will deal with how a child's self concept develops, as well as ways in which parents and teachers can influence its development.

Marlies Zammuto is a parent education instructor presently teaching through Andover Community Services. She has developed two courses, Parent-Infant Development and Parent-Toddler Development.

Marlies has worked with hundreds of families since 1975 in the Washington, D.C. and Greater Lawrence areas. Many of the class members have continued to meet upon completion of the classes to form informal support groups.

The meeting is open to the public.

Impressionist At Salem State

Thomas Macy, renowned Impressionist Painter, has works on exhibit at the Wintisky Gallery in the Salem State College Union Building, through March 6.

Mrs. Michael D. Burke

Burke - Heislein

At home in Methuen are Mr. and Mrs. Michael David Burke, who were married Dec. 20 in St. Patrick's Church, Lawrence.

The bride is the former Susan Anne Heislein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Thomas Heislein, 10 Wild Rose Drive, Andover. The groom is the son of the late Mrs. Claire F. Burke.

The Rev. Thomas D. Conway officiated at the 11 o'clock service, and the church was decorated with baskets of pink variegated carnations and holly for the occasion. A reception followed at the Andover Inn.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire gown of white velvet, and a circular velvet band headpiece with an attached silk illusion veil. She carried long-stemmed American Beauty roses with baby's breath and white velvet streamers.

Karen Lynch of Methuen was maid of honor, wearing a spruce green empire gown in velvet, with a long-sleeved white blouse. The junior bridesmaids, Amy E. Heislein and Kathleen Burke of Andover, wore similar gowns of cranberry velvet and white blouses. They all carried baskets of holly with variegated carnations, pink roses and pink velvet streamers.

Mrs. Heislein chose a rose velveteen dress with gray accessories for her daughter's wedding, and wore a corsage of pink roses.

Michael Smith of Lawrence was the groom's best man, and ushers included Richard T. and David E. Heislein, both of Andover.

The couple took a wedding trip to Cape Cod.

The new Mrs. Burke attended Andover High School and Bentley College, and is employed by Wang Laboratories in Tewksbury. Her husband attended Lawrence High School, and is employed by Frank DeLucia and Sons in Methuen.

Newcomers To Have Fashion Show

With the approach of the spring season, the Andover-North Andover Newcomer's Club is presenting a fashion show Tuesday, March 10, at the November Club, Andover.

The monthly meeting begins at noon with a dessert buffet featuring a variety of treats. Then a comprehensive selection of spring clothing, courtesy of Hit Or Miss clothing stores, will be modeled by club members.

To complete the program, a 15-minute film on self breast examination will be available to those wishing this information.

Deadline for reservations is March 5. Contact Jane Geifvert, Andover, for further information.

The only Victorian period townhouse open for viewing, and one of the first houses built in the Back Bay, is the Gibson House Museum, 137 Beacon St., Boston. Open Tuesday through Sunday, 2 to 5.

Former High School Asst. Principal Dies

Charles Q. Adams, 73, 23 Canterbury St., Andover, retired assistant principal of Andover High school, died Saturday at his home, following a short illness.

Born in East Boston, Adams retired in 1972 following 12 years as a teacher and administrator in the Andover school system. He had taught in Somerville for 28 years before coming to Andover.

A graduate of Boston College and Harvard University, he was active in youth programs and was made an honorary member of the Manchester, N.H. Rotary club for his work with youth in that area.

He was a well-known swimming instructor and official, and had been New England Aquatic Commissioner while with the Cambridge YMCA. He had also served as an AAU swimming official and taught swimming at Phillips Academy and at Rye Beach for 30 years.

He was a member of St. Augustine's church and a charter member of Somerville Council, Knights of Columbus.

He is survived by his wife, Phyllis L. (Humphrey) of Andover; two daughters, Mrs. Patricia A. Polgreen of Beverly and Mrs. Martha A. McMahon of Danvers; a son, John Q. Adams of Georgetown and four grandchildren.

A funeral Mass was offered Tuesday at St. Augustine's church. A private burial service followed in Bellevue cemetery, Lawrence.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Charles Q. Adams Memorial Scholarship Fund for Swimmers and Divers, in care of the Andover-North Andover YMCA, 165 Haverhill St., Andover, MA 01810.

Katherine Foley, 92, Former Legislator

Katherine A. Foley, 92, of Andover, a former state representative from Lawrence, died Friday at her home, following a long illness.

She served two terms in the legislature and was the first Democratic woman to be nominated for a state constitutional office, running unsuccessfully for Secretary of State.

Mrs. Foley was retired assistant commissioner of labor for the state, having served as minimum wage director, and was a charter member of the Massachusetts Legislator's Committee. She attained nationwide publicity while fighting for passage of an anti-breach of promise suit. Her battlecry was, "If a man loves a woman or a woman loves a man no price can be placed on such affections."

Born in Ireland, Mrs. Foley came to Lawrence at an early age and was educated in Lawrence schools, graduating from Lawrence Evening High School. She was a member of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Ancient Order of Hibernians and St. Clare League of Catholic Women. She was a member of St. Augustine's parish.

The widow of Mark F. Foley, her daughter, Kathelin Garrity died in August. She is survived by two daughters, Atty. M. Elizabeth Foley of Andover and Mrs. Joseph (Constance) Regan of Andover; seven grandchildren and nine great grandchildren.

A funeral Mass was offered Monday in St. Augustine's church. Burial was in Immaculate Conception cemetery, Andover.

Lester J. Streinz

Lester J. Streinz, 84, 8 Sagamore Drive, Andover, died Monday at Lawrence General hospital.

Born in Dubuque, Iowa, he was the retired manager of the Dubuque Automobile Club (AAA) and for many years had been the purchasing agent for Farley and Loetscher Mfg. Co., in Dubuque.

He was a member of St. Luke's church in Dubuque; a 50-year member and past master of Mosaic Lodge 125 A.F. and A.M. of Dubuque; secretary for 30 years of the Dubuque Masonic Temple Association; a member of the Dubuque Planning and Zoning Association for many years and an over 25-year member of Rotary International.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Charles F. (Rosemary) Hempstead of Andover and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held today at 3:30 p.m. in the Lundgren funeral home, 18 Elm St., Andover. Burial will be in Linwood Cemetery, Dubuque, Iowa.

Joint Concert Sunday

On Sunday, March 1, at 3 p.m., the Phillips Academy concert band, jazz band and brass ensemble will present a joint concert in Cochran Chapel on the Academy campus.

The concert band will perform three works, two for small wind ensemble, one for large. Katherine Bergeron will lead an ensemble of nine players in a movement of Charles Gounod's "Petite Symphonie," a classic of wind literature. Richard Wilson will conduct the overture from "The Good Soldier Schweik Suite" by Robert Kurka, for 16 winds and percussion. It is a vigorous, exciting work inspired by the anti-war satire, "The Good Soldier Schweik," written by Czech novelist Jaroslav Hasek. The work for full band, under Wilson's direction, will be the dramatic finale of Antonin Dvorak's Symphony No. 9, "From the New World."

The brass ensemble, under William B. Clift's leadership, will perform short pieces by two composers—three dances from "Terpsichore" by Michael Praetorius, the 17th century German composer, and five movements from Bela Bartok's suite, "For Children."

Clift will return at concert's end to lead the popular Phillips Academy jazz band in music by Duke Ellington, Glen Miller, George Gershwin, Stan Kenton, Earle Hagen, and others.

The concert is free of charge and the public is invited to attend.

For Those Of Us Who Are Older

By Janet D. Lake

It is all set. The trip to the Boston Flower Show will be March 18. The bus will leave The Haven at 11 a.m., stopping for lunch at the Kernwood in Lynnfield and then on to Boston, returning about 4:30. The whole day will cost $12.50 including transportation, lunch, and admission to the show. Luncheon will be a choice of chicken pot pie or boiled ham dinner. Stop by The Haven right away so that you won't be too late. Tickets for flower shows usually go pretty quickly.

There is still some room in some of the courses being given at the senior center. Why not check to see if there is something available that you'd enjoy. For instance, there is still room in Exercise for Health, Line Dancing, and Quilting, among others.

The next Haven Associates meeting is scheduled for Thursday, March 19, and will feature a magic show. Mark the date on your calendar.

The staff at The Haven is planning a really special party to celebrate St. Patrick's Day. A noon luncheon of Irish stew and Irish soda bread will be served March 17, and will be followed by a dance band playing your favorite Irish tunes and accompanying your favorite songs. It is not too early to get your tickets at the center.

The regular monthly meeting of the Andover Council on Aging will be held on the fourth Tuesday (instead of the third)

Wojtkun

Wojtkun is helping to plan (Cooper is chairman of the convention committee). Among the activities she is looking forward to are several workshops on such topics as "creative cutting," raised work and "marbleizing" — making a plain box look like marble.

But she is perhaps most excited about serving as a hostess at the Boston home of famed decoupage artist Hiram Manning during the convention. Joyce Cooper studied under Manning, she explains.

Wojtkun recalls seeing Manning's work exhibited at the Addison Gallery at Phillips Academy when she was "a young mother," and decoupage had just barely won acceptance as an art form.

"I'm just dying to see his home," she says enthusiastically, "and all of his pieces."

March 24 at 9:30 a.m. As with all town boards and commissions, the meeting is open to the public and you are invited to attend.

From time to time, The Haven is able to get tickets for special events— theater tickets, etc.—for Andover's seniors, but sometimes the events are not fully subscribed. Since the tickets must be paid for by the center in advance, and the bus has a fixed cost regardless of the numbers traveling on it, the cost of the unused tickets and bus seats must be pro-rated among those who had planned to attend. Sometimes this extra cost is the difference for some in being able to attend or not. The Haven would like to make up a list of townspeople who might enjoy being called at the last minute (usually a few days before the event) to purchase the unsold tickets and go with the group. If you would like to have your name on such a list, call the center and let them know. You can have a lovely time and help keep the costs

The popular and unique "Musical Offering" will return to Hammond Castle Museum on Sunday, March 8 at 5:30 p.m. The group was part of the spring series of the castle last year.

Founded in spring 1979, "Musical Offering" is an ensemble consisting of four permanent members who perform on baroque oboe and recorder, voice, viola da gamba, and harpsichord and organ.

Hi! I'm Laurie. Have you noticed those inches creeping up on you? Well, you don't until it's too late. You look in the mirror, hold your breath & say, "Well, I'll diet tomorrow." Tomorrow comes and goes & before you know it...Bang! You go shopping & the size 7 rack turns into 11's. I stopped feeling sorry for myself & decided to do something about it. I went to Joy. They gave me the incentive I needed. In a short time I was back in my 7's not only looking but feeling great. Watching yourself improve is great but even better when people notice.

Thank You,

Learning how to swim is like discovering a whole new world. These children are getting their first lessons at the Andover -North Andover YMCA. After getting used to the water they are taught how to float, jump off the board, tread water, and begin basic strokes. So, after a few lessons what at first was a bit frightening is now a lot of fun! Photos clockwise from upper left: Christina Holbrook holds tight to instructor Harold Grasse's thumb as she learns to float on her back; Four-year-old Gregory Getchell tries to overcome the jitters before he takes his first jump off the board; Nicole Maheu receives some extra encouragement from instructor Mary Jo Hayes as she takes her first step in the pool; Holding on tight, Nicole lowers herself into the water; Getting the hang of using the flutter board is Gregory Getchell; A group of five tries the backfloat; Without a second thought, Andrew Kriz takes to the water.

Parking Lot To Be Closed

As of Sunday, the parking lot behind the Tyer Rubber Building on Railroad Avenue will no longer be available to the 80 commuters who park there on weekdays, the town manager reported Friday—a change that could result in increased congestion on side streets, and may lead to new restrictions on downtown parking.

The Planning Board and Central Business Committee negotiated with Tyer Rubber several years ago to allow town use of the lot. Town Manager Jared S.A. Clark explained. The town, in exchange, agreed to plow the lot.

But as of March 1, employees of Converse Rubber will need to park in the lot; the lot they have been using across the street is part of the project to convert the former Tyer Rubber factory into an elderly and low-income housing project. That lot is to be landscaped as part of the housing project.

How will the loss of the Tyer Rubber lot affect downtown parking?

There may be some increased congestion on side streets," the manager said. "We'll have to wait and see."

The only solution to that problem might be to restrict parking to only one side of the streets on weekdays, he added.

The downtown municipal lot is already filled to capacity, while parking behind town hall is limited to two hours, and there are "no dollars available for adding more municipal parking," the manager noted.

However, there is still some commuter parking available at the Faith Lutheran Church on South Main Street, Clark said.

And the problem could be eased if the town cracks down on out-of-town parkers, he added, explaining that "a fair number" of commuters from surrounding communities, and even New Hampshire, park their cars in Andover.

The town is considering selling parking stickers to Andover residents "for a nominal fee," and ticketing non-resident parkers, Clark indicated.

The manager hopes that neighboring towns such as North Andover will create additional parking for their residents, taking some of the burden off Andover's streets, Clark said.

Final Review Of Plans To Cause Further Building Project Delay

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Once again it appears that the school building project has fallen behind schedule, and will not be ready to be opened for bidding by March 16 — the deadline set by the school building committee earlier this month.

The latest delay, estimated at ten days to two weeks, is the third for the $11.72 million project that will convert the Doherty school into a junior high, and renovate and expand West Junior High and the high school. The building committee had first planned to begin the bidding process in late December, and then moved the date forward to mid-February.

It is my opinion that while the plans will be finished by March 16, I don't think we can figure on going out to bid on that date," architect Herbert Glassman of Perley F. Gilbert Associates, Lowell, told the building committee last Thursday night.

The architect said his firm would need an additional ten days to two weeks for a final review of the plans, including reviews with local building inspectors and the state School Building Assistance Bureau (SBAB), which is funding part of the project.

"It's the safest thing for the town, to prevent problems in the future," Glassman said of the delay. "We'd feel a lot better doing it that way, and that's my recommendation."

Some committee members were disturbed by news of another delay. "This project's been going on for a long time," Paul Curley said. "Now it's another ten days or two weeks behind schedule. I'd like to know if anything is being done by the architects and their consultants, in any way, to push this thing up."

Glassman replied that the architectural firm has "put on additional personnel, and we are on an overtime schedule. We are making every effort."

Project Manager William Mansell, when questioned by committee chairman Kenneth Gropper, confirmed that the architects "are giving it a good effort. They have put on extra help.

However, he added, "To complete this on the date specified is going to be real tight, the way I see it. If everything goes well, they could meet it. But they would not have much time to review and double-check the plans."

The March 16 target date is "still important as a completion date," Gropper emphasized. "It is also important to have an opportunity to review the documents," he added, "but the necessity to review the documents does not in any way abrogate the March 16 date at this point."

I don't want to see the documents completed after this date."

Committee members fear that further delays could make it impossible to finish construction on schedule, by September 1983. "We're up against a real bind," John Sullivan said. "We're coming up to where the bids have got to go out, and this committee wants to see every human effort expended to that end."

Town Manager Jared S.A. Clark suggested that the review process could be speeded up if the architects submit plans for each of the three schools for review as they finish them, rather than wait until all are complete. The local inspectors "would like to have as much time as possible" to review the plans, he explained.

Plans for West Junior High and Doherty are closest to completion, the manager indicated, while plans for the new 1,250-seat high school auditorium are "not as far along as the others."

Glassman said that reviews in three stages could be arranged with both the local inspectors and the state SBAB, and Gropper instructed him to begin setting up appointments this week.

Project Manager Mansell called that approach "a good idea."

According to architect Gerry Dion, Alfred Fogarty of A.M. Fogarty Associates, Inc., is expected to deliver a final estimate on construction costs between March 10 and March 15, when the architects' working drawings are complete.

Fogarty's estimate will serve "in part as our basis for evaluating bids when they are received," Clark explained, adding that the estimate will not be made public.

The chairman appointed building committee members Curley, Richard Landry and William Munroe as a sub-committee to review the working drawings with the architects and Mansell as the bid documents near completion.

The next meeting of the building committee is scheduled for Thursday, March 12, and at that point, Gropper said, he expects to see the architects' drawings "99 and 44 100 percent pure."

Teenagers To Have Work Opportunities

Fourteen local teenagers will have an opportunity to work outdoors for eight weeks next summer, as well as participate in educational workshops on environmental awareness, as members of the Youth Conservation Corps, a federally-funded program offered through the town's Conservation Commission.

Boys and girls ages 15 through 18 are eligible for the conservation corps. The students will work 30 hours each week, earning $3.35 per hour, working to improve and study the 195-acre tract of conservation land surrounding Pomp's Pond.

Andover is one of 19 Massachusetts communities approved for the program, which will be administered through the state Department of Environmental Management. Andover has received a $19,592 federal grant for the youth corps, funding 80 percent of the project. The remaining portion will be funded by the Conservation Commission in the form of services, such as staff time and the use of commission vehicles.

Interested students have only until mid-March to apply to the federal government for a position on the youth corps. Applications have been distributed throughout Andover schools by the state.

Dina Hammond of the Conservation Commission urges Andover students to apply for the corps, because applicants will be randomly selected by computer in Washington, D.C. "The more Andover students who apply, the greater the chance that Andover students will be selected," she explains. "And the more Andover kids, the better."

Students from North Andover, Lawrence, Methuen, Tewksbury, North Reading, Wilmington, and Haverhill, as well as Andover, are eligible for the program.

Walter Erickson, coordinator of environmental affairs for the town, says that the youth corps should provide "a rewarding experience" for the students who participate. "Not only is it good summer employment and an educational opportunity," he points out, "but it serves town needs at virtually no cost to the town."

Starting July 6, the Youth Conservation Corps will begin working on rehabilitating and improving the woods and shoreline in Recreation Park at Pomp's Pond. Their jobs will include pruning vegetation, temporary seeding to control soil erosion and improve the appearance of the park, building picnic tables, and cleaning the edges of the pond.

The youth corps will also build a fitness trail around Foster's Island walkway, with wooden exercise structures and signs, and improve and extend the nature trail on the island.

In addition, the students will sample and test water from the pond and the Shawshen River, which is adjacent to Foster's Island, for pH, total nitrogen, total phosphorus, iron and other data.

Downtown Bus Stop Is Moved

Andover bus passengers will have to get used to catching their buses at a new spot beginning Monday, March 9, Town Manager Jared S.A. Clark reported Friday.

Trombly buses running to and from Boston will no longer pick up passengers in front of Macartney's on Main Street and discharge them in front of the Musgrove Building in Elm Square; instead, passengers will board at the municipal parking lot next to Olde Andover Village on Main Street, and get off in front of Town Hall.

Passengers who ride the local buses will also have a new bus stop. They will board and be discharged in front of Town Hall. Currently, the local buses pick up and discharge passengers in front of the Musgrove Building.

Clark said a small shelter may be built near the municipal lot next fall, after the Elm Square redesign project is completed.

The bus stops are being moved next month in anticipation of the Elm Square project, the manager explained, so that bus riders can get used to the new locations before construction in the square begins early this summer.

Dunbar To Head FinCom

Mrs. Ruth Dunbar has become the first woman to head Andover's Finance committee, succeeding Donn Byrne who resigned to seek a three-year term on the board of selectmen.

Mrs. Dunbar was chosen at a special meeting of the FinCom, following Byrne's announced intent to seek elective office. She had been serving as vice chairman of the committee, the financial review unit of the town.

Donald Ellsworth was elected vice chairman and both officers will serve with Frederick P. Fitzgerald, secretary, until the board reorganizes following town meeting.

Cohen In Line For Post

State Rep. Gerald Cohen of Andover confirmed this week that he is one of three men being considered to succeed Rep. John J. Finnegan as chairman of the powerful Ways and Means Committee.

The new chairman is scheduled to be named Tuesday, by House Speaker Thomas McGee.

Cohen said he would gladly serve if "tapped." Otherwise, he said, "I have plenty to do here." (Cohen is currently chairman of the Committee On Taxation, and admittedly has his hands full with Prop. 2 1/2.)

Cohen said the House leadership says they're relying on him on the Taxation Committee.

"They told me how valuable I am down here and I told them how valuable I'd be over there (on Ways and Means)," he said.

Cohen is in the first year of his third term in the House. Other contenders for the $36,000 Ways and Means job are Rep. Michael C. Creedon, D-Brockton, and Rep. James G. Collins, D-Amherst.

Thaddeus Buczek is now a probate judge for Essex County.

A Familiar Tune

A letter to the editor this week brings forth a familiar cry, which is constantly tossed toward newspapers.

Basically it asks why the media doesn't emphasize what the 'good kids do' rather than concentrating on the minority of young people who get in trouble or do something wrong.

The cry is probably as old as the hills and crops up on an annual basis, more than likely just after some errant youth or youths have captured the attention of the community.

This particular response was in regard to a recent editorial in which the TOWNSMAN praised the work of the retiring high school principal and at the same time recognized his desire to leave an educational environment far different than the one he entered 30 years ago.

While it is not common practice here to respond to letters to the editor, this one from the High School Faculty Senate, we felt, really pleads an overworked issue—that of publicizing the good works of youngsters.

If time and space permitted, we would enumerate the attention given by this newspaper to the various programs and accomplishments of Andover's youth in the course of the year.

Suffice it to indicate that the TOWNSMAN provides space to the secondary schools for youngsters to write columns. From time to time such things as school dramatic productions and other activities are publicized in story and pictures. The fortunes of the various sports teams are publicized in similar fashion. Walkathons, fund-raising activities for worthy causes conducted by students are provided space in the weekly columns.

Honor rolls, merit scholars, scholarship winners, special scholarly competitions receive adequate and often special treatment.

These are but a few examples of what we feel is fairness in treatment of the accomplishments of the 'good kids' in our community, and proud to have been able to recount their activities.

Also contained in the weekly publication, however, are such items as a police log, which lists arrests, vandalism, etc., that takes place in our community and which often might contain the names of high school youths. It happens.

There is also an editorial page, in which the opinion of the newspaper on particular issues is published. One can either agree or disagree with the points.

An editorial might comment, as it did on that particular occasion, on morale of the school faculty. While overall morale at the school may be good, we hardly think that teachers there or elsewhere face the daily challenge of the classroom with the same enthusiasm that the profession once enjoyed. It is simply a matter of the times in which we live and the environment provided to today's youth.

Putting it in simple terms, there is no Camelot!

There are good and bad among us, and we don't concentrate on looking for the evil. But we do report it when it happens, simply because it is what we are supposed to do.

But accomplishment is likewise treated and amply so.

In fact, if we were to put it all on a scale, we would judge that the recording of accomplishment and merit far outweigh the concentration on those who might get into trouble.

The Public Forum

Faculty Takes Exception

To the Editor of the Townsman:

On behalf of the faculty of Andover High School, the Faculty Senate takes exception to the editorial of 12 February 1981 entitled "A Difficult Decision Made Understandable." A very bleak picture indeed is presented to your readership, yet we would suggest your description is based largely on innuendo and gossip. We would also suggest that through such an editorial you only further a dismal, and largely untrue, portrait of Andover High School, its students, and its faculty.

A great disservice is done to those students — by far the majority — who work conscientiously and diligently both in the classroom and on the playing field. The faculty are still gratified by the "sweet smell of success from youthful scholars" who go on to further success in such institutions as Harvard, Yale, and M.I.T., or in a myriad of businesses and trades. Such is the case far more frequently than incidences of drug abuse. By alluding only to problems of abuse of alcohol and other drugs, you are no better than the opprobrious media personnel who descended on our school after the death of a student.

were led out on drug charges three years ago, yet who ignored a far larger number of students involved in raising money for the F.A.S.T., planning our third annual walk-a-thon. Moreover, our students are involved in the National High School Model United Nations program, having participated in December at the Park Plaza Hotel with students from all over the country, they are now preparing to join a much larger group in New York City in March. We can also boast a number of National Merit Scholars as well as eight finalists in the Boston Globe Scholastic Art Show.

Furthermore, we object to your fleeting stab at "general morale problems within the faculty." Contrary to some public opinion, we are not a group of malcontents with nothing better to do than complain about our salaries and our working conditions. By and large, we are a very professional staff who are concerned daily with the progress of our students, both academic and personal. We have our problems, but great or insignificant as they may be, they are no different from the problems every academic faculty must handle. And we will handle them as creditably as any other exceptional academic faculty would. We have made great strides in the past few years to overcome the physical barriers placed on us by the architecture of ministrators have labored long to reverse the "deterioration of the educational environment."

If our students differ today from the students of Phil Wormwood's first few years in education, it is because the world has changed. Thirty years of education encompasses a great deal of history through the restrictive curriculum of the fifties to the permissiveness of the sixties and the "back to basics" movement of the seventies, we are progressing toward an equilibrium which offers the flexibility of an elective system along with the guidance of required academic subjects.

Furthermore, although unstated in your editorial, the metaphor of the "rat deserting the sinking ship" cannot be missed. Please be reminded that it is Phil Wormwood who has captained that ship through some very stormy seas in the last twenty years, and whoever takes over the helm next September will find much calmer sailing because of Phil's precedence.

You are quite right that Phil "has served his community well" and now deserves the time to do what he wants with his life unlettered by meetings and schedules and the "thousand natural shocks that flesh is heir to." But the school he leaves behind is a far better school than you has worked with his students, his faculty, and his fellow administrators to make it such.

We wish him well. He will be sorely missed.

Appreciative!

To the Editor of the Townsman:

I want to publicly express my warmest appreciation to Helen West and her staff at the Randolph Nursing Home for their loving and conscientious care of my aunt, Lucile White, during her last few years in Andover. My aunt grew to love Helen West and her fine assistants and wrote often of their thoughtfulness and personal touches at holidays and on her birthdays.

At a time when nursing homes are under fire for callousness and cruelty, the Randolph Nursing Home stands as a role model for what can be achieved for our elderly when integrity and dedication, compassion and involvement are the cornerstones. When my aunt died last week, she died with dignity and peacefully, thanks to Helen West.

Reagan

one of the town's largest taxpayers. Because that industry pays "about half a million dollars a year in taxes, to help some of their employees get to work seems reasonable," Clark said.

Third on the manager's list of transportation priorities is commuter rail service. "That is not to say it is a low priority," he explained, "but the cost of running the trains in contrast to the number of people they serve is higher than the cost of providing regional bus service and the WLBUS service."

Massachusetts also stands to lose approximately $76 million in federal revenue sharing funds, Clark said, which will "adversely affect the ability of the state to increase local aid to cities and towns. This is bad news for Andover and other municipalities which together are "looking for $300,000 in local aid to make up for losses caused by Proposition 2 1/2," he added.

The manager also anticipates that reduced federal funding may result in more expensive school lunches. Such an increase would be "reasonable," Clark said, "so long as those who truly need greater subsidies have access to them."

Most families in Andover can afford to pay more than 50 cents for a lunch, he commented. "And they always have a choice — to buy a lunch, or to brown bag it."

Finally, purely as "speculation," the manager said it is conceivable that federal budget cuts will affect educational programs in Andover's schools, reducing the current "diversity of programs," such as art, music and sports.

Clark observed that so far, there has been no public reaction to the possible closing of another school in Andover, as well as proposed town budget cuts, leading him to believe that "people are prepared to do with less. The question is, how much less."

The re-examination of priorities by the Reagan administration will probably be healthy for the economy, the manager predicted, "although it might be painful for some, including Andover."

One likely beneficiary of the President's budgetary priorities is Raytheon, Clark noted, since the local company manufactures missiles, and Reagan would like to increase defense spending.

JACK ANDERSON and JOE SPEAR

SPECIAL WEEKLY

Fitzgerald's still tops for comptroller's postBy JACK ANDERSON and JOE SPEAR

WASHINGTON — Last December, we urged President Ronald Reagan to appoint Ernest Fitzgerald as the new comptroller general of the United States. The position will be open in March.

It would be difficult to find anyone better qualified than Fitzgerald to ride herd on the government's big spenders. He was the Air Force watchdog who blew the whistle on the C-5A transport plane scandal in 1969. He informed Congress about the Lockheed Corporation's shoddy workmanship and $2 billion cost overrun.

The Pentagon brass angrily fired Fitzgerald, but he took his case to court and forced the Air Force to rehire him. He was given a dead-end job shuffling papers; his talent for spotting waste and corruption went unused.

Now we are pleased to report that our December story has stimulated support for Fitzgerald. Such influential senators as Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., and William Proxmire, D-Wis., are now backing Fitzgerald for comptroller general.

This is important because, starting this year, candidates for the position are selected by an ad hoc committee of congressional leaders. The president selects the comptroller general from the names submitted by the committee. He can reject as many candidates as he chooses and thus, as a practical matter, select the comptroller general of his choice.

Unfortunately, there is one congressional leader who may oppose Fitzgerald. He is House Speaker Thomas "Tip" O'Neill, D-Mass.

Why is O'Neill nervous about Fitzgerald? Sources told our associate Indy Badhwar it's because of Fitzgerald's role in pressing for an investigation of the General Services Administration. This made life miserable for Robert Griffin, who was the deputy administrator and a protege of O'Neill's.

But Fitzgerald is a proven, dedicated bulldog, and we hope President Reagan will appoint him to chew on the ankles of the big spenders in the federal government. The president could do a lot worse; he could not do any better.

STAR WARS?: A few weeks ago, the Soviet Union launched a space satellite that could have serious consequences for the United States. It was a "killer satellite," and it is designed to destroy our spy satellites, which are relentlessly orbiting the Earth.

These spy satellites have become essential to the security of the United States. They alert intelligence analysts to Soviet missile deployments and troop movements.

The Russians have tested 18 killer satellites since 1968; 11 of the experiments have been successful. The latest test, a few weeks ago, worked to perfection.

The killer satellite resembles a compact rocket. It is some 15 to 20 feet long and about 5 feet in diameter; it weighs about 2.5 tons when it is launched. Four of its five engines are used for maneuvering in space as it seeks out spy satellites. The fifth engine makes the adjustments that are necessary to get it in the same orbit as the target. When it is about 100 feet from the target, the killer satellite is detonated and the spy satellite is brought down with flying shrapnel.

BUDGET BLUES: The governors from 18 states descended on Washington a few days ago for a meeting with the president. Half of them were Republicans who had made speeches against federal spending during last fall's election campaign.

The governors first held a private strategy session, then proceeded to the White House where they presented the president with a confidential memorandum.

The meeting itself was cordial, but the memo wasn't. It complained about cuts in welfare and Medicaid funds and warned that planned reductions would have disastrous effects on the states.

Some of the governors also pleaded for their states' special interests. The state executives from the Northeast, for example, argued against cuts in urban renewal funds. One Republican governor, Lee Dreyfuss of Wisconsin, warned the president there would be "screams" if the milk price-support program is touched.

President Reagan tried to calm the distraught governors. He agreed to let them send their own state budget directors to Washington to meet with his cost-cutters. The president also promised the governors he would consult them before the final budget is sent to Congress.

FUDDLE FACTORY: Uncle Sam spent four years and $75,000 building a contraption to test the durability of sofas for federal offices. The machine whacks the sofas a couple of hundred thousand times. If the couch survives, then it is certified durable enough for bureaucratic behinds.

— There is a hidden cost to the millions of tax dollars that are wasted on government junkets. Besides the expenses of transportation, meals and lodging, it costs a bundle to pay for processing all the travel vouchers through the bureaucracy. Experts estimate that the paperwork for junkets cost as much as $400 million a year.

— The federal bureaucrats communicate with each other in a special language that is often called "bureaucratese." We call it gobbledygook. What, for example, is a "re-employed annuitant"? In plain English, it's a civil servant who retires from the government and is then rehired as a consultant at a fat salary.

Andover High Girls Ousted From Tourney

The girl's varsity basketball team lost its opening game in the EMass Tournament to Wakefield Tuesday night 62-48. Early foul trouble hampered the team's performance in the second quarter and the Warriors were forced to play catch-up for the remainder of the contest. High scorers were Heather Thomson (23) and Bryna Jones (10). Congratulations are in order for Coach Joan Bellissimo and her team for their fine season (13-4). Photos clockwise from upper left: Senior Pam Adler grabs a rebound from Wakefield's Renee Najarian; Center Bryna Jones gets fouled as she goes up for a shot; Heather Thomson tosses in two of her 23 points.

Hockey Team Ends With Upset Victory

By Cynthia Surret

The Andover High School Varsity Hockey team ended the season on a high note on Wednesday, Feb. 18, with an upset win over Haverhill. The victory was especially sweet, because if Haverhill had won, they might have qualified for the state tournament.

The upset over Haverhill gave the Warriors a total of 13 points for the season. Although this wasn't the most satisfying season to the team, it was a bit brighter knowing that they had acquired more points than any of the teams in the past seven seasons.

The first period of play was a very close checking period and the teams skated off tied at one. The Warrior goal was notched by Brian Butler—the team's leading scorer with 14 goals. He scored unassisted as he blocked a shot at the point, broke down the ice, and with a beautiful fake to the right, beat all-star goaltender Kip Manseau to the short side. Andover played an exceptional first period, limiting Haverhill to six shots on goal.

The lone goal in the second period was scored by Greg Sacco on a powerplay, assisted by Brian Butler. Sacco picked up the puck to the right of the goaltender, slid across the slot and fired a forehand shot into the upper-right hand corner. The checking remained close and the Warriors outskated the Hillies by a wide margin.

Haverhill started off by scoring 25 seconds into the third period on a shot that took a bad bounce over the stick of goaltender Dave Leitch. Five minutes later, the Warriors' Gary Milne answered with a goal that proved to be the game winner. Hardworking right-winger J.J. Downey set up Milne for the play. Downey dug the puck out of the left hand corner and fed it to Milne in the slot. The 15-foot backhand-er tiptoed through a screen of players and snuck into the lower left hand corner of the net.

As the game wound down to the final minutes of play, several penalties were called and the Warriors came out with a man advantage. The powerplay unit of Brian Butler, Tim Derby, Craig Hyslip and Wayne Merola put on an excellent passing exhibition, keeping the puck away from the desperate Hillie gang—thus ensuring the victory. While Andover's overall solid defense kept Haverhill to 17 shots-on-goal, senior goalie Dave Leitch often looked spectacular in preserving this satisfying victory.

Last night, Wednesday, Feb. 25, the team held their annual Banquet/Awards dinner. The following awards were presented.

To senior Dave Leitch went the Team's Most Valuable Player Award. His goals against average were 4.2, the lowest of any goaltender in the past several years. Coach Peter Grogan felt that the key to Dave's success was "his tremendous positive attitude and concentration. Even when things weren't going well for himself or his teammates, he never seemed to lose his poise."

The second award was the Coaches' Award. Senior co-captain Tom O'Brien received this award which is annually given to the player who exemplifies the highest team spirit, sportsmanship, unselfishness and leadership qualities.

Senior Dave Deloury received the Unsung Hero Award; sophomore J.J. Downey was recognized as the Most Improved Player; and senior Brian Butler, who finished the season with 14 goals and 10 assists for 24 points, was given the Top Scoring Award.

The team was also honored with the announcement that two of its members, senior co-captain Wayne Merola and junior Tim Derby, the leagues third highest scoring defenseman with nine goals and 11 assists, were elected to the East All-Conference Team.

Elected captain for the 1981-82 season was Tim Derby; alternates were Tom Fabiani and Craig Hyslip.

Graduating seniors are Alan Bennett, Brian Butler, Dave Deloury, Dave Leitch, Wayne Merola, Tom O'Brien and Ed Sullivan.

MODEL TWO Full-Range Electrostatic Loudspeaker System With MK-121 Magne-Kinetic Drive System*

Acoustat Corporation, the world's largest producer of full-range-element electrostatic speakers announces the newest addition to its product line — the modest sized, budget priced Model Two.

With the introduction of the Magne-Kinetic 121 transformer drive system for the larger Monitor Three and Four speaker systems and the resultant 3 dB gain in SPL, the creation of a high performance two panel Acoustat became possible.

The Model Two has the same spectral balance and sonic signature as the larger Monitor Series. It provides extended low bass response, a midrange with almost unbelievable definition and imaging, and uncompromised high frequency response. All of this with truly remarkable sound pressure level.

The unique efficiency of the MK-121 drive allows the system to perform at concert hall levels with 50-100 watts per channel. In addition, because the MK-121 never drops below 3 ohms top of the band impedance, the system is not amplifier critical.

The Acoustat Model Two now offers for the first time a full range electrostatic with full-range-elements (no crossovers), small in size and price but not in performance. The Model Two truly sets a new standard for electrostatic speaker design.

THE TOWNSMAN, FEBRUARY 26, 1981

By She Livermore

In overtime action with division leaders Christ A, St. Augustine C won a close upset victory and avenged their only loss of the season. With seven points apiece, both teams are now tied for the top spot in the East Division. St. Robert C had no difficulty in winning the eighth straight victory and would appear to have the West Division title wrapped up.

Brief results of all the games played the week of Feb. 9 appear below:

Swimmers

Jones and Scott Bates fourth. Miele was third in the 200 free with Ted Crane fourth and Ted Anderson fifth. In the 200 I.M., Cronin was third with John Tolan fourth.

Al Frizelle was second in the 50 free with Grant Van Aken third and Bates fifth. Frizelle doubled with a win in the 100 butterfly with Jones third.

In the 100 free, Hannon was first with David Maxwell fifth.

Morava was second in the 500 free with Van Aken fourth. Morava followed in the next event to lead Hannon and Bellino in a sweep of the 100 backstroke. Miele was third and Hannon fifth in the 100 breaststroke.

The freestyle relay team of Tolan, Jones, Maxwell and Van Aken was second while the team of Bellino, Pat Robb, Anderson and Bates was fourth.

This Saturday the boys will compete in the Eastern Mass. District Championships in Brockton.

East Division

St. Augustine C 15 - Christ A 14

With 35 seconds left on the clock in overtime play, St. Augustine were behind one point when Scott Lanouette tossed a 12 foot shot towards the basket: the ball swished through the net and St. Augustine won a hard fought victory over the only team to beat them in regular league action. With this win, St. Augustine placed themselves in a tie with Christ A for top spot in the division.

Scott Lanouette led the scoring with 5 points. Jeff Edwards added 4, Peter Caruso, James Edwards and Alex Horgan each contributed 2 to the important victory.

John Russell led Christ A with 9 points. Mark Angelos contributed 3 and Robert Ashworth added a solo.

South 23 - Christ B 6

South won handily over Christ B by more accurate shooting. Chris Eggert led his team with 9 points. Jim Hendry came a close second with 8, and Dave Milne, Leo Fontaine and Bryan Boucher each tossed in a basket.

Ken Gable tossed in 4 points for Christ B, and Mike Giammusso and Bob Nash each completed a free throw.

Christian Parker and Bryan Boucher were the standouts for the victors: Mathew Grant played a fine game for Christ B.

St. Augustine D 18 Ballardvale United 5

St. Augustine D outscored and outplayed Ballardvale to win an 18-5 victory. Andy Peck led the scoring with 8 points. Jonathon Lewis added 4, and Craig Knight and Tom DeBenedictis tossed in a basket and completed a charity shot.

Kin Lowe put Ballardvale on the scoreboard with 3 points and Chris Lowe

YOU MAY NEVER BE ABLE TO BUY A NEW SAAB FOR AS LITTLE AGAIN.

For most people, last year wasn't a very good one. For Saab, too. Because when people find it hard to buy cars, we find it hard to sell cars. But now we have another problem. We have to get rid of our 1980 models, fast, in order to make room for our 1981s. So we decided to do the easiest, obvious thing—mark them way down. Which means you'll get a really good deal. And, of course, you'll also get a really good car.

Temple Emmanuel 2

Temple Emmanuel, missing one of their key players, were overwhelmed by division leaders St. Robert C 31-2.

James Spinelli pumped in 8 points. Kevin Murphy and Mark Schwetz each contributed 6. Brendon McGrail added 4. Mike Faraci tossed in 3, and solos by Brad Reghitto and Mike Smith completed the scoring.

Steve Gack put Temple Emmanuel on the scoreboard with his lone basket.

Paul DeMarco and Jerome Guerard turned in a fine performance for the victors; Gary Witover, Mark Leinson and Scott Goddess worked hard for Temple Emmanuel.

St. Robert D 9 - St. Robert B 8

St. Robert B played excellent team defense throughout the game and narrowly missed pulling off an upset victory over St.

Robert D.

John Mattolo led the scoring for the D team with 5 points, closely followed by Paul VanDerWielen who tossed in 4.

Patrick Romano contributed 4 points for St. Robert B. Derek Leahy added 2, and Tim Martin and Chris Sullivan both made a free throw count.

Jeff Saunders and Andrew Bedell were the standouts for St. Robert D; Chris Jarek turned in a fine performance for St. Robert B.

West Parish 15

St. Augustine B 4

West Parish in a rematch with St. Augustine B avenged the loss suffered in their first encounter by excellent defense and good team hustle.

Scott Clementi and Adam Guild each contributed 4 points. Chris Kew added 3, and Dave Carnes and Scott Livermore tossed in a basket apiece.

Daw Fater and Patrick Finn put St. Augustine B on the scoreboard by each contributing two points.

DePiano Chooses Terriers

Jim DePiano, an All-Scholastic and Most Valuable Player of Andover High School's football team, will attend Boston University in September.

DePiano, a 6-foot, 220 pound nose guard, was a two-time All-League and All-Conference player. The team captain, he made the All-Divisional team this past season and the Centenary All-America team.

Jim has the quickness to play linebacker for us and the strength to play as a down lineman," Terrier Head Coach Rick Taylor said, also pointing out that DePiano is the second Andover player to attend Boston University in the last two years. Tailback Mel Berger came to join the Terrier program last year.

The Terriers were 9-2 last season and went 5-0 in the Yankee Conference to win their first conference title outright. Ranked ninth in the final Division IAA poll, Boston University has compiled a 17-3-1 record over the past two seasons. In 1979, the Terriers tied with Massachusetts for the conference championship.

In addition to playing for Dick Collin's football squad, DePiano also throws the shot put on Andover's outdoor track team.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank DePiano of Timothy Drive.

victory for St. Augustine A.

Todd Goyette contributed 4 points to St. Augustine's total. John Davies added 2, and Brian Davies completed a charity shot.

Matt Perry led the scoring for St. Robert's with 6 points and Chris Landers tossed in a solo.

Andy Weiner and Billy Tobin were the standouts for the victors; Jonathon Merenda, Wendy Marotta and Mark Green played a great game for St. Robert A.

On Varsity

Mary Alice Taylor, a sophomore at Wheaton College in Norton, MA, is a member of the varsity field hockey team. The team's intercollegiate schedule includes contests with Holy Cross, Bowdoin College, and Wellesley College.

Wheaton College, founded in 1834, is one of the nation's oldest colleges for women. It's athletic program includes nine varsity teams which participate in seasonal inter-collegiate contests.

Mary is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth M. Taylor of Andover.

North Andover Supply 1.

Haffner's 3

With only seconds remaining in the game Mike Alden took a pass from Paul McDonald and fired it by Gary Bachinsky to give North Andover Supply a 4-3 victory over previously undefeated Haffner's Sunday at Brooks School. After Sean Tetler had given Haffner's a 1-0 lead, McDonald and Dan Moynihan combined to tie the score at 1-1. Paul Durant put North Andover Supply in front 2-1 only to have Tom Long from Dan Cyr tie the score again.

The teams then swapped goals with Cyr scoring an unassisted goal for Haffner's and Steve Duncan combining with Paul McDonald for North Andover Supply.

Goaltending dominated the third period as both teams had numerous opportunities only to be thwarted by Haffner's Bachinsky and North Andover's Pat Hayes.

Bowne of Boston 2

Indian Ridge Country Club 1

Greg Stewart and Sandy MacNeish scored early in the first period and then helped their team hang on behind the outstanding goaltending of P. J. McCabe for a 2-1 victory over Indian Ridge Country Club. Sunday at Brooks. Indian Ridge put constant pressure on Bowne throughout the game only to be turned away by McCabe. Mark Durkee scored Indian Ridge's lone goal late in the game assisted by David Abdo to spoil McCabe's shutout bid. Frustration was the name of the game for the Ridge as McCabe turned aside several scoring bids by Durkee, Tom Novelline, Rob Moody, Scott Grant, James Morocco, Jay Turmel, Mike Hart and Kathy Donovan as Indian Ridge held a strong territorial edge throughout the second and third period only to come away empty handed.

Smokers Liberation

A four-session Smokers Liberation program is scheduled to begin March 12 at Lawrence General Hospital (LGH), co-sponsored with the American Cancer Society.

Each of the sessions will be two hours long beginning at 7 p.m., held on Thursdays and Tuesdays. The other dates will be March 17, 19 and 24.

The program will use group support, films and educational materials to aid persons who want to quit smoking. Janet Miller, RN, of LGH will be the facilitator.

Cost of the program will be $25 of which $10 will be returned if the participant attends all four sessions.

To register, call the LGH department of education.

43 THE TOWNSMAN, FEBRUARY 26, 1981

Squirt A's

Danvers League
Andover 6, Masco 1

Andover had their easiest effort of the season in this win over Masco. Defense was the name of the game for the first 9 minutes. Tormey, Lyons, Stella, McSweeney and Maginnis did a fine job on defense for Andover. They kept the Masco offense at bay and only allowed two shots on net. Goalie Anderson handled both shots with ease. Offensively Andover did not score until the 3 minute mark of the period but they peppered the Masco goalie and dominated positional play. The first goal came when Farnham hit Raftery with a nice pass in the Masco zone. Raftery shot and the puck bounced to Donegan on right wing who then beat the goalie on the right side. On the same shift, Raftery hit Farnham with a pass in their zone who then got the puck to Donegan in front of the net and he scored his second goal. The period closed with Andover ahead 2 to 0. Masco's goalie stopped 11 other shots.

The second period again was Andover's. Our defense kept Masco at bay and only allowed 4 shots on net. Goalie Anderson played tough in goal and kept out all attempts. The nicest pass play of the game occurred at the 4 minute mark when Gilmartin, in Andover's zone, hit Matt Adams going up ice, with a nice pass. Adams swung in Masco's zone and drew the defensive man left. Adams then made a nice drop pass for McNamara. McNamara, without hesitation, banged the puck home. The period ended with Andover ahead 3 to 0.

Andover opened the third period scoring on the first shift. Adams, in Masco's zone, picked the puck up on the right wing side. He moved right and shifted left quickly. This moved the defense out of the way and allowed him a clean shot on their goalie. He put a nice low shot to the right side of the goalie and scored the fourth goal for Andover. Three minutes later Breen scored on the fourth goal for Andover. Three minutes later Breen scored on the third attempt in front of Masco's goal. Bleszinski's attempt was deflected by a defenseman to Stoltz. Stoltz shot and hit the goalie. The rebound went to Breen who finally hit the net. Andover's final goal was scored by Raftery, with a nice hard shot to the left of the goalie. The first defensive error cost Goalie Anderson his shut out. Stella and Tormey, playing the puck, let the man break in alone on our goalie. Anderson came out to challenge and managed to get his stick on the puck. However, there was enough on the shot to get it in the net. The period ended with Andover winning 6 to 1. Andover had 33 shots on net to Masco's 8. Overall it was a very well-played game for Andover.

Wilmington League

Andover 0, Cambridge 1

Andover played a very flat game against a lucky Cambridge team. The first period saw Andover's offense play very sluggishly which put additional pressure on the defense. Tormey, Maginnis, Stella, Lyons, McSweeney, all on defense for Andover, played well. Cambridge scored, however, when Goalie Anderson misplayed a weak shot which bounced over his stick and rolled slowly into the net. The period closed with shots on net at 5 each.

The second period saw Andover's offense go from bad to worse. They just could not get on track. Again though, the defense held. The puck went back and forth, but no serious bids were made by either team. Andover did not manage to get a single shot on net, while Cambridge had three which Goalie Anderson handled with ease.

In the third period, the offense started to pick up the play for Andover. The problem was that they forgot to play like a team. While the individual efforts were better, they forgot the pass and made it easier for Cambridge's goalie to make the crucial saves. Goalie Anderson was called on to make two point-blank saves which he did. Andover outshot Cambridge 7 to 3 in the period and 12 to 11 in the game. The final score — Cambridge 1 — Andover 0.

FIX-UP DOLLAR SENSE

In most decisions in life, there is often a choice available. A home improvement project is no exception. If the question is how to best use your improvement dollar, keep in mind the eventual resale of your home. The national average length of home ownership is seven years. It's what a buyer sees, not what you tell him, that makes the difference.

Which do you think would add more to the visual value of a home - new insulation or a new kitchen? Unless the insulation is really on its last legs, a new kitchen is a better investment. A buyer can see a new kitchen or remodeled bathroom, an exterior paint job, but will he see the insulation behind the walls and in the attic?

Of course, it's always nice to do both, but if you have a choice, spend your money where it will be seen the most. It will make your house more attractive and more salable when the times comes.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at THE HOWE AGENCY, 4 Punchard Ave., Andover. Phone: 475-5100. We're here to help.

ANTIQUE COLONIAL

Built in 1796 on land which has passed from father to son since 1663, this fine example of Georgian architecture is a four over four colonial with an ell which was added in 1900 for maids' rooms, kitchen, and pantry. The first floor of the main part of the house contains a large central hall off of which are a parlor, a sitting room, a dining room and a library. All the rooms, which are spacious and contain fireplaces, exhibit fine craftsmanship of raised paneling, antique brasses, and detailed mouldings. On the second floor are four gracious bedrooms each with its own fireplace, old hardware and church doors.

Adjacent to the house on the more than two acres are the carriage shed, main barn and granary, which offer charm as well as storage. The property is located on a most prestigious street in historic Andover.

mittee's last meeting, he did not believe that the committee was opposed to returning to town meeting for additional funds for the gas main if it was necessary. "Perhaps I misunderstood," he told the committee.

He repeated the point he made at the last building meeting: that absorbing the

They will conduct a fish and wildlife survey of the marsh, woodlands, pond and river bank, planning to introduce wildlife into the area. The youth corps will also study the possibility of using the pond as a public skating area, with the advice of the Public Works department.

An additional ten hours each week will be devoted to educational workshops, which will focus on subjects "related to what the students have been working on," Hammond explains. "If they have been doing tree work, they may be given a workshop on forestry." Lecturers will include town employees as well as personnel from state agencies, she says.

The students will not be paid for the educational portion of the program, Hammond adds.

The Conservation Commission is currently looking for two adults to participate in the program, in the positions of camp director at $5.75 per hour, and environmental instructor/coordinator at $5 per hour. Those hired must have a background in natural and environmental resources, Hammond says, and "like working with young people."

Seven boys and seven girls will be chosen for the Youth Conservation Corps Hammond explains, and the town's Affirmative Action policies will be followed in the selection process as well. Students who are selected for the program will be notified in mid-April.

cost of the gas main into the existing bond issue would be difficult, and could harm the building program.

"The only place to cut the budget meaningfully is in the equipment budget," he explained. "We've pulled all the gymnastics we're going to (with the rest of the building project budget)."

Committee Chairman Kenneth Gropper told the manager that his committee remains opposed to requesting additional funds for the gas main from town meeting.

But he added, "The committee is faced with the realization that we are an advisory committee to the town manager. We have taken a position — but it is not incumbent upon the town manager to follow our position."

Committee member Paul Curley said he did "not disagree" with the manager's action because "you can't close out your options two months before town meeting, before the bids are even in."

Cole commented that the committee is "the tamest building committee Andover has ever had."

The need for a new gas main came as a surprise to the architects and William Mansell, project manager for the town, in early January, the manager said Tuesday. When Mansell first contacted Bay State Gas Company in October, he was informed that gas service was available in the area.

The gas company was not given exact figures on how much gas would be required, Clark said, but the company "was told that it was for the school building program. They were told the magnitude of the need, although not the exact amount."

Charles Kamitlan, commercial and industrial representative for the gas company, said Monday the company did not immediately realize a new main would be necessary because "the amount of the load wasn't given to us. When we realized the size of the load, we knew we couldn't handle it with our existing service."

The new high-pressure main will be built from Merrimack College to the power plant area of the Doherty School. The existing service pipes from the college to Lucerne Drive will have to be upgraded to accommodate the new main, Kamitlan explained.

"The town is getting a good deal," he said. "The town will only be charged for the new portion of the main, not the upgrading. Our own contribution will be substantial."

The new main will cost the town $48,000 if the service includes the two wings of East Junior High that are not part of the converted junior high, Kamitlan said. If the town services only the Doherty, using less gas, it will be charged $62,000 for the main.

Lectures

The sixty-second Annual Ropes Botanical Lecture Series will be held four successive Wednesday afternoons during March at 3:30 p.m. at the Ropes Mansion. On March 4 and 11 Mrs. Richard D.
